Payroll Network Chief Executive Officer Charlie Wolf II Named President of Independent Payroll Providers Association (IPPA)

Kensington, Md.- Charlie Wolf II, president and chief executive officer of Payroll Network (www.payrollnetwork.com), a leading independently-owned payroll management company that provides payroll processing and HR services to companies in the Washington, D.C. region, has been named president of the Independent Payroll Providers Association (IPPA). IPPA is a leading nationwide trade association made up of privately held companies whose primary function is the preparation of payroll and payroll taxes for employers of all sizes.

“I am deeply honored to have been selected by my peers for this important leadership role,” said Wolf. “Our focus this year will be on building increased value for the IPPA membership and providing more involvement opportunities in the association. This, combined with increased communication, will ensure IPPA continues to grow now and into the future.”

A native Washingtonian, Wolf is a certified public accountant (CPA) and has an extensive background in providing services within the technology industry with a focus on establishing and fostering long-term relationships with clients, partners and associates.

Wolf and several associates founded Payroll Network, located in Kensington, Md., in 1998. Through Wolf’s emphasis on high-quality customer service and strategic partnership building with brokers, CPAs, and HR professionals, Payroll Network has grown to become the leading local provider of payroll processing and HR services to companies in Washington, DC, Virginia and Maryland.

Previously, he was president and CEO of Wolf Computer Systems, providing accounting services to the property management industry. Prior to that position, he was executive vice president at Automatic Data Processing (ADP). He also was founder and owner of Hughes Computer Systems.

Charlie earned his Bachelor of Science degree in accounting from Georgetown University. He also attended graduate school at George Washington University and American University. He is a member of many professional associations, boards of directors and non-profit organizations in the Washington, D.C. area.
